The palace features design inspiration from traditional and modern European architecture, with grand cathedral balconies from which diners watch live theater or feel each chord from a live band. This nearly 11,000 square foot ceiling has professional lighting and acoustic equipment that can accommodate Cirque du Soleil style shows, and a stage that can rise six feet.

When the long awaited Tatiana Restaurant & Night Club made its gala debut on New Years Eve, the 700 eager patrons who flocked its tables expecting 5-star Russian, eastern European and continental cuisine and a floorshow to knock their socks off began the New Year satisfied.

A TASTE OF ELEGANCE

Tatiana looks like the great old opera houses with its balconies and hand-carved gold ceilings, under which you can dine and wine, then twirl your partner on the sleek, highly polished wood dance floor to the music from the finest bands on the globe. Not even the high rollers in Vegas get treated this well.

Owner Walter Abolsky says, "This is like a little palace in eastern Europe. We had designers and artists do the artwork and carvings. Our ceilings are 24karat gold. It was handmade. It took over four months just to complete the ceilings."

It also has four handsomely tooled brass doors and a tall glass exhibition case that is home to an array of Faberge eggs.

As for food, it's five-star. The menu has 400 dishes, consisting of Russian, eastern European and continental cuisine ranging from meat, seafood, salads and vegetarian dishes, and a fully stocked cocktail bar.

AND THERE IS MORE. MUCH MORE!

An all you can feast on brunch for $29.99; a three-course lunch for $12.99; a show on Friday, Saturday (10:00ish) and Sunday (8 pm).

An exclusive contract with Moscow Music Hall, in addition to the best singers, dancers musicians and DJs from all over the world helps provide south Florida's most unique entertainment option.

"We are getting a lot of offers from Las Vegas, from eastern Europe, from the United States and other countries that want to bring their entertainers to our place," Walter Abolsky says. They just signed a deal that will bring in famous Turkish pop singer Gülsen who will perform on April 20th.

"We are equipped for any kind of a show," Walter Abolsky says. "We can accommodate musicians, singers, we already are doing dinner theater."

They even have a snow machine. "We have a snow machine that will blow you away. We have smoke machines, all kinds of visual effects. But real snow! When people are dancing, suddenly they see snow falling on their heads. It took almost a year to build this place, and a lot of money."

Tatiana's cabaret definitely is in the Moulin Rouge-Las Vegas extravaganza tradition.
